FIERCE FISTIC ENCOUNTER IN ROOM ADJOINING SALOON.

Combatants Fail to Appear in Police Court Today - Labor Meeting

Proposed-General Items.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 19, 1907. When the names of R. J. Lewis and John Jones were called by Clerk Webster in the police court this morning to answer charges of fighting and of disorderly conduct, both of the accused failed to put in their appearance, and forfeited $10 each. Both of the men, who, it is said, gave fictitious names, last night about 10 o'clock engaged in a fierce fight in Broughton's saloon on King street. From what could be learned of the affair neither of the combatants had been drinking, but a few minutes prior to the fracas both repaired to a room in the rear of the saloon, which was crowded with people, and in a few minutes afterward there was breaking of glass and the throwing of chairs. Those in the bar ran to the belligerents, and made an effort to stop the row.

In the meantime Policeman Banner T.
Young appeared. He found both men clinched, it is said, and it was necessary to use his baton on the combatants before they ceased.

The faces of both were covered with blood, and several friends who endeavored to separate them, were cut by flying glass which was broken during the melec. The affair created considerable excitement in the neighborhood. Friends of both of the men, when seen last night, refused to assign any cause for the affair.

THE SOUTHERN GROCERS.

J. A. Van Hoose, Birmingham Grocer, Elected President-Other Officers.

BALTIMORE, July 19.-After a hardfought fight, which lasted for several hours, the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association concluded its sixteenth anni il convention at the Maryland Theater yesterday afternoon by re-electing Mr. J. A. Van Hoose of Birmingham, Ala., president.

The rival candidate was Mr. Dorsey H White of Memphis, who had the solid backing of the large Memphis delegation. .vhen the final vote was counted it stood: Van Hoose, 110; White, 50.

After the result had been announced Mr. Van Hoose's election was made unani-

Other officers elected were:
First vice president—Henry Forcheimer,
Mobile, Ala. Second vice president-R. P. Woodson,

Second vice president—R. P. Woodson, Memphis, Tenn.

Treasurer—S. W. Lee, Birmingham, Ala.
Advisory board—J. A. Van Hoose, chairman; Theodore Melchers, Charleston, S. C.; B. F. Bowen, Jacksonville, Fla.; J. R. Williams, Lynchburg, Va.; Adolph Geyer, Little Rock, Ark.; A. McD. Wilson, Atlanta, Ga., and J. B. Rogers, Wilmington, 1... C.
In point of interest the election of president was the main feature of the convention, which was in session three days. It was said that the element favoring the election of a new man over Mr. Van Hoose. was said that the element lavoring the election of a new man over Mr. Van Hoose, who has been president for six years, was the strongest in half a decade. Indeed, many of Mr. Van Hoose's friends were fearful of his defeat, and the adherents of Mr. White were boasting that they would elect their man

A number of the delegates left last night for their homes in the south, while a few others went to Philadelphia, Atlantic City and New York to see the sights. ### CALLS IT A PIPE DREAM.

Official So Designates Stories About Certain Smoking Tobacco.

.г. PAUL, Minn., July 19.-Acting Commissioner John McCabe, in the absence of Commissioner Slater of the pure food department, has declared that the stories generally circulating through the northwest derogatory to several standard brands of smoking tobacco were entirely without foundation, in so far, at least, as the commission was concerned. The stories which, under the circumstances, appear to be libelous, cite an imaginary analysis in which one well-known brand was found to have no tobacco at all, the greater part being common brown paper, and that an equally popular brand was only 10 per cent tobacco. "It would be interesting to know where such a report originated," said Acting Commissioner McCabe, "as we certainly have made no analysis of the kind. Whether the big four brands in question are made out of tobacco or not, the stc·v of our having rendered such a verdict is made out of whole cloth. If, however, American manufacturers can successfully transmute brown paper into tobacco, why bother about the Havana article any longer? No, somebody has been dreaming."

PHILADELPHIA, July 19 .- While in the bathroom of his residence, 2010 Wallace street, yesterday morning, Benjamin Franklin Hart, a well-known retired street railway official, fell dead from heart failure Leaving the breakfast table, apparently in fair health, Mr. Hart went to the bathroom. He remained there so long that Mrs. Hart feared he had been taken ill. When she opened the door she found him lying

Mr. Hart was born in Hartsville, Bucks county, on March 22, 1825. He was a descendant of the Hart family, who came to this country with William Penn, and who founded the town of Hartsville. He was also a lineal descendant of Col. John Hart, who fought in the revolutionary war.

B. and O. Breaks Bridge Records.

BALTIMORE, July 19.-The bridge engineering force of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad made quick work Wednesday in replacing a new bridge for an old one. This bridge crossed Red Clay creek on the Philadelphia division about four miles west of Wilming: 🗬

It is a single-span, double-track structure of 2 feet. It was built by the Youngstown Construction Company, by whom it was placed in position, under the direction of the railroad company's engineers. The work of making the change started immediately after the Washington-New York train had pased, about 11 a.m. From the time of cutting the old track until the new bridge was in position just thirty-one minutes was consumed. The time from the start of pulling the old bridge out until the new one was in position was only ten min-

Former Baltimorean Kills Himself. BALTIMORE; July 19 .- Donald Cameron, 801 Madison avenue, has received information from Silver City, S. D., that Charles Seip, formerly of Baltimore, committed suicide in that city last week. Mr. Seip left Baltimore in 1877 to prospect for gold and silver in South Dakota. He remained in South Dal.ota, and was postmaster and proprietor of a general store in Silver City at the time of his death. He never married, but has a married sister in Baltimore. When Mr. Cameron was in Silver City in 1902, he became acquainted with Mr. Seip. Information as to Mr. Seip's death was received by Mr. Cameron from the mutual acquaintance who introduced them.

WOMAN'S SENSE OF HONOR.

Her Special Code for Conduct Toward Her Husband.

A well-known American warder said to me: "I have been in prisons for men and in prisons for women. Discipline in the former is child's play compared with the latter. As soon as a man realizes there is no use of resisting he gives in But the womer even when we put them in straitjackets, always manage to extricate at least one finger and to agitate that in a rebellious manner."

In the manner of conduct toward husbands and consideration due to the "better half," there is an especial code of honor. It has the stability that sanction by women of all countries gilves it, but it does not resemble any code that a man would observe toward another man, nor which a woman would employ toward any human except her husband. This code includes the right her husband. This code includes the right to search pockets, consult notebooks, open letters, read those already opened. It includes the right to confound household and personal accounts, to use on self the money intended by the master of the house for paying bills. This system is not frequently practiced, perhaps, and less frequently admitted, no doubt, yet we remember one newly married woman who announced as a little triumph: "When I buy for myself something I don't like I just sell it to the house."

The peculiar indulgence which the con-jugal state seems to call for as regards the weaker sex in matters of honor more or less delicate was thus strikingly sumless delicate was thus strikingly sum-marized by a philanthropist accustomed to all sorts and conditions of people. Among the poor whom she visited there was a woman who in a fit of rage or jealousy had killed a man. In relating to me the case the philantropist concluded sadly: "Yes, she killed him, and he wasn't even her hughend!"

Protecting a Famous Game Bird.

From Leslie's Weekly. One of the most notable enterprises in the way of introducing valuable birds from abroad into this country is now under way in the west. The Phasian bird, which was the name given by the ancient Greeks and Romans to the pheasant because it was said to have been brought from Phasis to Colchis by Jason in the famous ship Argo, s being imported in large numbers into the United States from England, China, Belgium and other foreig countries by Mr. W. F. Kendrick of Denver, Col. If the works is properly encouraged and the birds protected by law for a few years, the United States will be filled with the hardiest and most beautiful feathered creatures in the world. Pheasants are but little in the world. Pheasants are but little known to the great mass of people of the United States; but in European countries, where this gorgeous bird was introduced by the Roman legionaries before the Christian era, there is no fowl so universally admired. The kings of England, in the olden days went hawking for pheasants and todays, went hawking for pheasants, and to-day pheasant shooting in England is con-sidered the most royal of sports. Pheas-ants are the finest of all game birds; their plumage delights the eye of the artist; their swift flight and gameness inspire the hunter to bring all his faculties into play he eye of the epicure brightens when the bird is brought before him at the table.

A Goose's Thousand Miles.

From London T. P.'s Weekly. If birds have no mysterious sense of direction, how is it that the pinioned goose of Oudubon started to walk its thousandmile journey at the proper season? While referring to geese, let us ask ourselves the question, "What kind of a gale would be needed to drive a wild goose from the Hebrides to Iceland?" A gale will drive a bird on and out of its course. Instances have been recorded of American birds which had been blown over to Iceland. which had been blown over to Iceland.

And though we are quite in agreement with the theory that the wind gives the bird the initial stimulus to fly, we venture to assert that the bird knows which direction to take, no matter from what quarter the wind may be blowing, and that it does so in virtue of an inherited instinct handed down through a long line of ancestors who found it beneficial to make those journeys.

THE GREATEST BRIDGE.

Pennsylvania

Avenue.

Cost $50,000,000 and Is Most Stupendous Engineering Problem.

From the New Broadway Magazine. The magnitude of the projected Hudson river bridge does not at first strike the unthinking person; but when it does strike it comes with a breathless, aerial significance. It will be the eighth wender of the world, and the eyes of foreign engineers are turned to New York with expectancy.

The plans of the new structure are practically those of the original North river project. It was a long step from a 1,700foot span (then and still the longest in the world) to over 3,000 feet, the distance to be world) to over 3,000 feet, the distance to be covered between the piers on either side of the broad Hudson. To make a bridge almost double the length of the Brooklyn bridge meant building the towers nearly twice as high; and in order to allow for additional roadways and tracks the bridge of double length must be also twice as wide. Thus the proposition involved was really very much more than building a bridge with a double-length span—for three dimensions had to be considered, making the entire structure nearly eight times as large as the Brooklyn bridge.

Brooklyn bridge.

At first other engineers were loath to believe that modern materials made possible so great a bridge. But the entire profession is now agreed that the bridge is possible and practicable; and their estimates of conductive to the conductive statement of the conductive

These four towers will be about 800 feet from foundation stones to top. They will carry the eight mammoth steel cables that will curve gracefully across the noble Hudson and support the two-deck, steel-truss bridge, 140 feet wide, capable of transportng 100,000 persons in one hour without undue crowding.

Antitoxin for Unsuccessful People.

But for unsuccess there is ever an antilote, and of the many thousands who suffer from it there is not one who cannot overthrow it if he choose. Unsuccess never annihilated a man unless he first decided to allow it to annihilate him. As the same medicine is often obtainable in the form of a capsule, a pill or a liquid, so the antidote of unsuccess exists in forms as varied as the natures of the sufferers. One person finds the antidote in one of the so-called new religions, which demand the exertion of the mental faculties in forcing fear from the horizon; another in the companionship of a chosen individual, who infuses him with courage, and enables him once more, in spirit, to stand on firm legs. One imbibes this antidote from books of philosophy; another from the contemplation of indefatigably shining stars, and the bravery of the tiniest of created things—ants and spiders, which never own defeat. The antidote is everywhere, and he feat. The antidote is everywhere, and he is half way to a cure who recognizes that unsuccess is not a force, but a lack of force. The conditions change naturally

SLEEP AND DEATH. Neither Pain Nor Consciousness at the Instant of Either.

The phenomenon called sleep may be summed up in the following propositions: "First-Sleep is temporary death of the functions of the sensitive system, due to xhaustion by fatigue. Secondly-This death is temporary because the vital system continues to perform its functions during sleep and restores the sen sitive organs to their normal condition. For our purpose death may be considered under the three heads, natural death, sudden death and death from disease. Natural death is death from old age. It differs from natural sleep only in degree. The gradual loss of sensibility by the sensitive organs which precedes sleep now takes place in the vital system, and all the organs pass into permanent sleep together. organs pass into permanent sleep together. There can be no pain preceding or at the moment of such a death, any more than there is pain preceding and at the moment of passing into temporary sleep.

Sudden death may be defined as death due to a sudden injury from without or within the body sufficient to destroy at once all irritability of both the sensitive and vital systems. It requires no argument to prove that a person who is suddenly stricken dead can suffer no pain. The element of prove that a person who is studently strick-en dead can suffer no pain. The element of time must be present in order to suffer physical pain, and in the sudden death of a person the element of time is absent. We come now to consider the third and by moval of the cause of it. But in any event the suffering has been endured, no matter whether the final termination is death or

No one is conscious of or can recall the moment he passes from waking into natural or temporary sleep. Nor shall we, by a "supreme agony" or in any other way, be conscious of passing into permanent sleep.

Being born and dying are the two most important physiological events in the life history of our bodies, and we shall know no more about the latter event at the time it occurs than we did about the former.

Horrid War.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer, For hours the Nicaraguan army had been peating up the bush in an attempt to locate the enemy. Then Gen. Stefano Pinquirillo called a council of war. The eleven full major generals gathered around the darkbrowed Napoleon of the chaparral, while the thirty-two brigadier generals stayed back with the seventeen privates. "Soldiers," said the commander-in-chief as he dexterously drew a bramble thorn from the sole of his dusky foot, "the time for action is here."

"But where is the enemy?" interrupted Gen. Henrique Mendoza. The commander frowned so severely that he broke a sun blister under his left eye.
"Shall it be said that a Nicaraguan ever
